New Watch Collection From Weems & Plath

Swiss-Made and Beautifully-Designed with Functionality and Durability in Mind

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE, Oct. 15, 2008

This collection is styled after the famous Weems Second Setting Watch designed by Captain Philip Van Horn Weems in 1928 that was used by famous aviators; including Charles Lindbergh and the U.S. Army Air Forces during World War II. These Swiss-made watches contain quartz movements and windows to display the day of the month. Additionally, the dials and hands are fitted with a gaseous tritium light source (GTLS), a technology formerly only found in professional dive watches.

All three watches feature:

- Dependable Swiss-made movement
- Water resistant 10 ATM (330 ft)
- Scratch-resistant mineral crystal
- Surgical grade stainless steel casing
- Date window shows day of the month
- Each watch is individually numbered
- Black leatherette storage case
- 2-year warranty

Both the Sport Navigator watch and Classic Navigator watch are available with either a black or white dial. The Professional Navigator watch comes only as pictured. All watches are etched on the back with a unique rendering of Captain Weems and attractively seated in a black leatherette storage case.
